

The world was perceived me as a little too raw, a little too much, a little too perfect.
No one can ever live up to that and I never was that.