

the Eyes of Love

The eyes are the windows of love — through them you can see a person's heart . . . but can you recognise whose hearts are here?

The answers are on page 71. How many did you get wrong? More than three and you'll start us wondering if you really do know who you love — but if you got less than three wrong, well, who do you think you're playing around — all of them?