I'm sleep-in' and right in the mid-dle of a good dream like all at once I wake up from some-thing that keeps knock-in' at my brain. Be-fore I go in-sane I hold my pil-low to my head and spring up in my bed, scream-in' out the words I dread, "I think I love you,—I think I love you."— This morn-ing I woke up with this feel-ing I did-n't know how to deal with and so I just de-cid-ed to my-self I'd hide it to my-self and nev-er talk a-bout— it and did-n't I go and shout—it when you walked in-to the room. I think I love you,— I think I love you,— I think I love you, so what am I so a-fraid of? I'm a-fraid that I'm not
