

DAVID CASSIDY is probably the dreamiest new face to appear on TV this season. But there's a lot more to David than his fantastic good looks. In case you're wondering just what he's really like when he's off-screen, now's your chance to find out. David's invited you to be all alone with him!

The first thing you notice when you meet him are his huge and wonderfully exciting hazel eyes—sparkling, mysterious and a bit impish. He smiles a kind-of shy smile and almost whispers a quiet but very sincere, "Hi, it's great to see you."

There's no reason for David to announce to the world that he's happy to be with you. As long as you and he know it, that's all that's important. And you'll know it because he said so. David doesn't believe in saying things just to impress people. He not only dislikes people who do, he thinks they're phonies and very uninteresting. Take David seriously and you'll get along fine.

He smiles again—a little more sure of himself this time—and shows a dimple. He really wants to put you at ease so that you can be yourself and have a good time with him.

"Well, where do we go?" he asks. Being a gentleman, he offers a few suggestions, but leaves the final choice up to you.

You already know that he doesn't

(continued on page 60)

DAVID CASSIDY:

"I WANT
TO BE ALONE
WITH YOU!"