

Can You Pass David's Kiss Quiz?

IT'S LATE AT NIGHT. You've turned the corner and you're walking down the last half block before you get to your house. There are thousands of stars in the sky and a full moon rides high above, shedding its silver light on you and the handsome boy who is walking at your side. For a moment, an especially bright ray of moonlight falls across the features of David Cassidy's face—and in that same moment, you are almost breathless. Here you are, on your first date with the boy you've been madly in love with for over six months—and now that date is about to come to an end! As David takes you up the little pathway to your front door, your heart is beating a mile a minute. You turn as if to say good-night, but you are struck silent. David is standing very close to you. Though you are outwardly calm, inwardly you almost panic—wondering what will happen next!

Maybe it's all just a dream, but what if it did really and truly happen? What if you really did go out on a date with adorable David? What if you did finally—at the end of a lovely evening—find yourself standing alone with him in your doorway? What would you do? And what would David do? SPEC is presenting a "David Cassidy Kiss Quiz" that not only includes David's ideas about kissing (and the do's and don't's thereof), but also his idea of what his type of girl should be like.

So—having become a David Cassidy expert (what with reading all the stories by and about David in 16 and SPEC)—you are now about to take David's kiss quiz! Take each item one at a time, read it very slowly, and after you have given it careful consideration—check your answer "Yes" or "No." When you have finished, turn to Page 60 and find out how your answers stack up with David's answers. Remember—take your time, consider carefully and be very truthful. The answers are on Page 60—but don't you dare peek until you take David's kiss quiz!!

1. If, on your first date, you and David were sitting in a restaurant or walking down the street and he reached out and held your hand, would this embarrass you?

YES NO

2. If you were sitting with David in a movie theatre on a first date and he put his arm around you and hugged you, would you object?

YES NO

3. If you were riding with David in his car and he leaned over and kissed you on the cheek, would you feel that this was an improper move on his part?

YES NO

4. When it comes to kissing good-night, would you let David know what your attitude is—in other words, would it be fairly clear to David whether you will or will not kiss him good-night on your first date?

YES NO

5. Or do you think David would prefer your willingness or unwillingness to kiss to remain a mystery—in other words, do you feel he would rather guess what's coming at the very end of the evening (than have a definite idea of your attitude ahead of time)?

YES NO

6. If you would like to share a good-night kiss with David on your first date, but feel that it would be improper, would you not tell David this—but rather keep it to yourself?

YES NO

7. If your personal morals are the reason you won't kiss on the first date, would you tactfully and politely tell David so before the evening is over?

NO NO

8. Is your idea of a good-night kiss on the first date a quick peck on the forehead or on the cheek?

YES NO

9. Is your idea of a good-night kiss on the first date a kiss on the lips—but very brief?

YES NO

10. Is your idea of a good-night kiss something much more meaningful than the above two?

YES NO

11. If, at the end of your first date, David took you home, held your hand, looked in your eyes, but said good-night without trying to kiss you—would you be hurt?

YES NO

12. If, when David got you to your doorway at the end of your first date together, he reached out, gently held you in his arms and kissed you on the lips for a moment or two—would this make you happy?
