

The PF episode ends with my saying "thank you" and "good-bye" to the PF gang. They leave Denver and head for home, while "Lionel" and I take off (would you believe in a hearse?) for Hollywood, California, and success as a songwriting team—we hope!

Sitting at a table in a restaurant on Sunset Boulevard, "Lionel" asks my advice on "how to meet girls." Right then and there, a beautiful girl comes over and befriends us, and as I may have expected—"Lionel" says exactly the wrong thing!

But that's only one of the funny situations we get into. "Lionel" also finds a groovy pad for us to live in. The only trouble is it turns out to be a second-hand furniture store—meaning we have to share our home with the customers who come in and out all day long!

YOU to
WES STERN

While reading this sneak peek at my new TV show, you've learned a little bit about "Lionel Poindexter". However, I thought I'd take this opportunity to introduce you to the handsome young actor who plays the role of "Lionel". His name is Wes Stern—and of the many actors who tested for the part of "Lionel", the unanimous choice was Wes. He's a groovy guy and a talented actor. You may have seen him before, because Wes has made guest appearances on Love American Style, Room 222 and The Mary Tyler Moore Show. He's also appeared in several films—namely, The First Time, C. C. And Company and Three In The Cellar.

Although Wes was born in New York City on July 25, 1949, he moved to the West Coast about two years ago and now lives in a bachelor apartment in West Hollywood. Wes is currently house-hunting and may be moving any day now.

As for his vital statistics (which I'm sure you girls are interested in), Wes stands five feet and eleven inches tall, weighs 155 pounds, and has dark brown hair and brown eyes. Wes and I have a mutual interest in music and a few of the recording artists he enjoys listening to are the Rolling Stones, James Taylor, Jake Holmes and Mama Cass. Wes loves Chinese food, and the color burgundy, and his favorite sport is swimming. In real life, Wes isn't as girl-shy as "Lionel"! Wes loves girls, particularly ones who are on the quiet side, have a good sense of humor and make an effort to look as attractive as possible. I know Wes would love to hear from you, so if you have a minute, drop him a line in care of:

As you can see, David and I had good reason for our startled expressions (like the ones we're wearing in the 16 SPEC exclusive color photo on the right) cos even though we had lots of laughs—we really got into the script! I've tried to show you a sample of what's in store for you—and me—when my TV series begins. Take care and see you in September!!
