

DAVID'S KISS SECRETS!

HOW'DYA LIKE TO KNOW what makes David Cassidy want to kiss a girl?! And maybe you'd like to know what a kiss really means to David?? If those two questions have been bothering you lately—well, you've come to the right place, 'cos David's kiss secrets are about to be revealed!!

WHAT MAKES YOU KISSABLE?

One of the first things David—or any boy, for that matter—notices about a girl is her mouth. The way a girl speaks and smiles reveals a lot about her, and the prettier and more pleasant your mouth is—the more kissable you are.

As boring as it may seem to some, “mouth care” is absolutely essential if you want to be a kiss-capturing young lady. Aside from regular oral hygiene—such as brushing your teeth after every meal and putting a little lip gloss on occasionally to keep your lips soft—the way you “use” your lips has a lot to do with your kiss appeal. For instance, are you a perpetual frowner?—or maybe you haven't noticed! Take a good look at yourself in the mirror one day with your full attention on how you hold your mouth. Say a few words, smile—then try to lapse into the facial expression you feel you most often use. How do you look? Are you a pouter? A lip chews? A frowner? Or is your usual “facial expression” a pleasant one? And is there a slight curve upwards at the corner of your lips? If the look on your face, especially around your mouth and lips, isn't pleasant and inviting—well, girl, you'd best get to work, 'cos if you want to be the girl David longs to kiss, you'd better be plenty kissable!

WHAT A KISS MEANS TO DAVID

For David Bruce Cassidy, there are many kisses. There's the kiss of friendship, the kiss of flirtation, the kiss of promise, the kiss of longing, the kiss of desire—and the kiss of love.

The kiss of friendship is that quick little “peck on the cheek” we give to those special people we care for—like moms, dads and best friends. In its own warm way, it says more than a hundred words. The kiss of flirtation is a lot like the friendship kiss, but it is not as quick—and it is not as far away from your lips! If David gives you a kiss of flirtation, afterwards he will also give you a meaningful look—a look that says, “I think I like you. Do you think you like me?”

The next kiss David gives you—the kiss of promise—holds a different kind of meaning from the others that have gone before. This is a soft, gentle kiss—perhaps on the corner of your mouth—and it says, “I would like to see you again and be with you often.” If you respond to David's kiss of promise in a positive way, soon you will be sharing with him a kiss of longing. This is the subtle kiss that begins with a sigh and ends with a look deep into each other's eyes. This is the kiss that asks, “Could you be mine forever?”

The kiss of desire, which follows the kiss of longing, is the opening of a new world for you. It is romantic, exciting and more uplifting than anything you've ever experienced. It is the kind of kiss that sends your spirit soaring for hours and hours, the kind of kiss that makes it impossible to erase the picture of David that keeps returning to your heart's “eye.”

The next kiss—the kiss of love—is the beginning of a whole new relationship between you and David. It is the fulfillment of all the kisses you have ever known or shared. It is the kiss that fills your being with a glow from head to toe. It erases every fear and doubt you have ever had—and opens to you a whole new world of a lifetime of shared joy. It is the kiss of forever.