

YOUR

fave's greatest

FEAR:

ALONE. To be alone when you want others around you can be frightening. Even the printed word, "A-L-O-N-E" can leave chills of fear—especially to those beautiful guys you know as your faves.

Their biggest and nightmarish fear is that someday you will stop caring and leave them behind. When that happens it will mean unbearable loneliness for them!

Being loved and wanted is a great happiness, and once that kind of love is tasted and experienced—losing it spells out even greater pain. When you pull your love away, for your faves there is little left! Then they begin to know the real meaning of heartache and being truly ALONE!

What is your answer when your special fave looks at you, reaches out to you, and asks, "Will You Always Be There When I Reach Out to You?"

