of herself and needs a cause to identify with. David wants his girl to be sure of her own identity so that when she's with him, she can share herself with him and not be too busy with her causes to care.

Can you spot a phony a mile away? Well, David has gotten pretty good at spotting one and getting away from her before he gets to know her well enough to cause him any pain. But, sometimes, David does get caught. He'll meet a girl and think she's really great and he'll want to get to know her better. In order to do so, he'll spend evenings with her and give all he can of himself. His new friend will give too, but what it is she's giving David is definitely not her friendship, it's lies. She probably wants something specific from David, like wanting to be seen with him in public. Perhaps it's to further her own career, or maybe she's just another celebrity head-hunter. Even if David is fooled for a little while, the phony is bound to let her disguise slip eventually. Once David knows she's been false to him, watch out! He'll stop being her friend before she even knows why.

So let this be a warning to all of you who love David. Remember, he's a sensitive human being who can be hurt very easily. Don't be the one to make him cry.

OSMONDS

he's playing against Alan's team—Alan's Agitators—which is made up of Alan, Donny and Wayne. While his brothers are walking around exploring a stadium they're going to sing in, Jay gets right out on the field and throws either his football or his Frisbee around. Jay confesses, "I like physical things, all kinds of sports. I also like to read or take my dates to the park and talk. Everyone seems to think that you have to take a girl to a movie, but I like to do different things on a date." As a result of skinned knees and scraped elbows—but he's a spartan. Once while having a water fight with his brothers, he knocked his head open on the edge of the bathroom sink. It's taught him to be more careful, but he's still as activity minded as he always was.

Merrill admits that he's at his best early in the morning. On his day off he likes to get an early start, eat breakfast and then head for the hills. His favorite day is spent hiking up in the mountains. Of course, a double-favorite would be a day spent in the mountains near the Osmonds' ranch, Merrill's pet place. "We try to get back there at least 4 weeks in the year," Merrill tells us. "When we get there, we just flake out. We have a big ranch, with horses and
