

What David

EVER SINCE that controversial TV Guide "David Cassidy story"—in which David was pictured relaxing with a scrumptious-looking blonde actress named Robyn Millan, and in which it was stated that he had allegedly said, ". . . 13-year-olds can get to be a bore"—David Cassidy fans all over America have been demanding to know just what kind of girls David does like and what he expects from them.

The truth is—David was grossly misquoted. Actually, he never said anything about 13-year-olds, except "I dig them"—which was fully explained in the January issue of SPEC. So, now's the time to get around to answering that second big David Cassidy question—"Just what does David expect from girls?"

A GIRL NAMED JUDY

The first girl David was ever linked to publicly is an adorable and very talented actress named Judy Strangis. Judy is not only a regular on Room 222, but also has appeared as a guest on many other TV shows. The first public appearance David made with a date after he was famous as "Keith Partridge" was at the Bell Records' party for his hit single I Think I Love You—and Judy was the girl he chose to take with him. After a few pix of David and Judy appeared in a number of different magazines, the furor it caused forced David to stop having his picture taken with dates. Period. The picture of Judy shown here was taken at a big ABC-TV press party and her date was actually David Cassidy—but when the flashbulbs started popping David discreetly split while Judy posed prettily for the photographers.

Though many stories have appeared in those adult-type fan magazines saying that Judy and David are steadies, the truth is
