

be taller than he is—David is five feet and eight inches tall—and that he prefers a girl not to be too heavy.

Among the other girls David occasionally dates is one named Lynn Dubian, who is the daughter of a family friend. Lynn is another girl who is fun-loving and who has a great sense of humor. Obviously, these are two characteristics David longs for and expects to find in a girl he can be close to. As David himself puts it, "Though I never have time for a real date anymore, when I have a few hours—I know that I can call up Lynn and go to a movie or to dinner without any fuss or bother. But more important than that, I know I will always have a good time with Lynn. She's very 'un-Hollywood'—and I really like that." So, once again, David is stressing his need for a girl who is sincere, down-to-earth and non-plastic.

WHAT GIRL HAS THE POWER TO CAPTURE DAVID?!

Probably the girl closest to David is his co-star and friend, Susan Dey. This, of course, is sheer coincidence in that they are working on the same TV set from 7 A.M. to 7 P.M., five days a week. Actually, if David and Susan had met under different circumstances, they may never have become the close friends they are today—for they are basically very, very different types. Susan would be totally happy with a guy who loves to come home every night, help her cook dinner, talk, go for long walks, and maybe sit around and look at TV. "I'm basically a homebody," Susan explains, "and though David doesn't get a chance to go out very often, he's basically a non-homebody!"

What Susan means is that though David indeed likes to sit around and be quiet, if he had the time he also would love to go out on lots of dates and do lots of swinging things. For instance, David loves to dance, and before his hectic show business schedule he used to frequent the more swinging Hollywood discotheques along the Sunset Strip. David digs adventure and excitement, and he's willing to take risks—within certain limitations, of course. So that means that he expects and likes for a girl to have plenty of spark, daring and "get up and go."

So just what girl does have the power to capture David Cassidy—and to hold him? Obviously, so far he hasn't met that "certain" girl—for none of the girls mentioned in this story have been able to capture, tame and hold on to adorable David. If David's one and only "she" hasn't entered his life yet—where is she, who is she and what has she got to have? Maybe she's sitting right where you're sitting this very minute. Maybe she's holding this magazine and reading this story. And, just maybe, she's YOU!!

And what are the characteristics and qualities that you may have—or develop—that David longs for and expects from you when you meet one day? Here's David's very own "Expectation Check List." Take a look at it and then check the characteristics you think you have that meet David's expectations. Good luck!
