

DAVID CASSIDY TURNS GUARD DOGS LOOSE ON FANS!

■ Will life never settle down for David Cassidy?!

First it was the shock when David posed, almost fully nude, for a leading rock newspaper. Some of his fans were delighted, others were startled. But sure enough, no one would ever call David "super puppy" again!

Then it was the cancellation of a long expected Hollywood Bowl appearance. Thousands of David's fans were once again tearful when the news leaked out that (supposedly) because of fatigue, David wouldn't be appearing at all. Hundreds of saddened Cassidy fans braved the rain to get their ticket refunds, but clearly nothing would ever make up for the unhappiness they felt. David had promised the concert and then decided against it.

But the latest Cassidy incident tops them all.

It started out to be just another day for David, who was touring England doing one-night concerts.

In Britain, like every place else that David goes, he's mobbed and this trip was no exception. Eager fans, who love David from afar, followed him everywhere. (Please turn to page 80)

Back in Hollywood with date Jan Freeman, David told press his version of the nightmare he suffered after London performance.

David's concert brought 2000 adoring female fans and ended in a riot.

Blaming hotel officials for the way things were handled, David moved out.