DAVID: MY OO WORST MISTAKES!

6 When I was really young, in 6th grade, I took in some "cheat sheets" in for a test and I got caught. I was so ashamed of myself—I wished I'd never thought of cheating, and I never did it again!

7 I think it was a mistake to plant this one kind of green crawly vine in my backyard. It grows and grows, and you can't kill it, and it's sort of taking over back there! It looked so innocent when I bought it, too!

8 When I was first dating in high school, I tried to two-time my steady girl friend. I broke a date with her to go out with someone else. It turned out that she saw us together and really let me have it! I deserved it, though, and it taught me a lesson!

9 When I was in England last time, I made the mistake of not knowing all the security rules. I was in Manchester, and the crowds were pretty big . . . the guards let dogs loose and sprayed the kids with hoses to keep them back. If I had checked with them ahead of time, I would never have let that happen to my fans!

10 Another mistake I made is . . . one I don't know about yet! Maybe I picked the wrong songs for my last album, or maybe I missed a letter from you in the last mailbag I got! Anyway, let's hope it wasn't a big mistake this time!
