

THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY: YESTERDAY

LET'S GO BACK to those thrilling days of yesteryear—four yesteryears, to be exact—when your fave show, "The Partridge Family," first went on the air. Could it be so long and yet so short a time? You can hardly imagine a time when you didn't know about and watch David, Susan, Shirley, Danny, Brian, Suzanne and Dave. How time flies...

Gaze longingly at the photos on this page. This is how the Partridge crew looked when it all began. There's been lots of changes. Danny and David have gotten bigger and groovier, Suzanne and Susan have grown lovelier. Of course, after the first year, Jeremy Gelbwaks left the show because his family moved to Virginia. He was replaced by Brian Forster. All the Partridges hated to see Jeremy leave, but they all made Brian feel right at home. In fact, Danny knew Brian from some TV commercials they had done together. They really are one big happy family. Remember, all families, no matter how happy they are, always have squabbles every now and then. "The Partridge Family" is no exception.

Just think back. David, Susan and the other kids were complete unknowns. "David who?" you said as you watched the show for the very first time. "I don't know his name but he certainly is cute. And what a great voice."
