

SHAUN: He's Wild & Wicked!

Maybe Shaun and David Cassidy share their love of music, but when it comes to living the wild life, there's no comparison—Shaun is wilder than wild, wilder than David ever was!

It's not hard to find Shaun Cassidy in Hollywood. All you have to do is go to the "in" places where the "in" people go! Shaun loves the wild, Hollywood life—much more than half-brother David ever did! David was content to stay at home most evenings, and if he kept late-night or even early-morning hours, it was for work only, such as recording sessions that went until all hours of the night!

But Shaun is a night person, and it's not unusual for him to stay out most of the night, jamming with friends at local clubs and dancing up a storm with all the cute girls! One of his favorite Hollywood spots is Rodney Bingenheimer's, which is known for having young girls dressed in far-out glitter costumes, and young guys dressed even freakier!

A Hollywood gossip columnist has seen Shaun out on the town and prints his name in the next day's trades... is Shaun unhappy that his private life has been publicized? David might have been, but Shaun loves it! That's the reason he goes to all the right places and knows all the right people! He's wild and a little wicked—and he likes it that way!

DAVID CARRADINE ARRESTED!

On September 17, 1974, David Carradine was arrested! Read what happened and why!

On September 17, the police arrested "Kung Fu" 's star, David Carradine, for allegedly breaking into a neighbor's home and tearing it apart! Hours later, Carradine was free on $1,000 bail, awaiting trial for trespassing, breaking and entering and malicious mischief.

The police got the call from David's neighbors and arrived to find the house in a mess! There were broken windows, overturned furniture, and blood all over. The trail of blood led to David Carradine's house, but he was not at home. He was later arrested at the "Kung Fu" studios, where he had been treated for a cut arm (he had lost two pints of blood!).

Reportedly, Carradine had been on a drug trip, and he said was "in a strange house that was closing in" and he "had to get out!" David is said to have told police, "I have a drug problem." If David is, in fact, guilty, what effect will this have on "Kung Fu" and his career? Will he go to jail? Hopefully, the answers will come soon, and Tiger Beat will be sure to tell you!
