

What people are wearing OVERSEAS

The McCartney family on the move — leaving London's Heathrow airport for America, where Paul will record a new album. Paul wore a striped suit, two-toned shoes and a patterned shirt; his wife Linda topped her heavy coat with a feather boa. Linda's daughter Heather (from her first marriage), chose pants, a smock top and carried a fur-trimmed coat; Linda and Paul's small daughters Mary, 5, and Stella, 3, wore long socks, skirts and jackets.

Right: Yoko Ono, estranged wife of John Lennon, in a dress topped by a white feather jacket, with teenybopper pop idol David Cassidy, at an avant garde art gallery in New York. David topped his pants and T-shirt with a velvet coat appliqued with print fabric.

Ballet superstar Rudolph Nureyev, who was among famous guests at the 35th anniversary of the American Ballet Theatre, celebrated at New York's City Centre with a benefit gala. Nureyev was distinctive in a fur hat, a braid-trimmed double-breasted jacket, matching pants and shiny leather top coat with a zippered front.
