

Pacific Stars And Stripes - 1973 November 4

The latest in youth-idol apparel is a "cloak of secrecy" which, it's said, David Cassidy wore for a 4-day London visit earlier this month. The purpose of the trip was a TV taping and David's keeping quiet about how he performed the fantastic feat of traveling unrecognized in case he wants to use it again. There's idle chatter that he trekked about Britain in a Bobby Sherman mask.