

NONSENSE!

GINA LOLLOBRIGIDA has spoken to Truth about her so-called "torrid affair" with David Cassidy.

"What would I want with a little boy?" she asked. "I prefer a man."

Gina told Truth she had some pictures of Cassidy but denied he was nude.

"I took pictures of David in his bedroom. He was in bed," she said. "But he was not in the nude."

"He had a jacket or something on. He was not fully dressed because he was in bed."

Miss Lollobrigida said she did not have to describe her pictures to anybody.

"The ones I have taken of Mr. Cassidy will be published later this year," she said.

"I read a newspaper report on Sunday saying I had taken nude pictures of him.

"I do not know where they got that story from.

"The newspaper did not contact me. They just published what they liked.

"It is not true that I took pictures of Mr. Cassidy in the nude."

Asked what she thought of the report that she had a torrid love affair with Cassidy, Gina replied: "Look, I do not have to answer such nonsense."

Miss Lollobrigida is 47 and Cassidy is 23.

Miss Lollobrigida, who visited Melbourne as guest star at the TV Week Logie Awards, left for New York on Monday.

Cassidy, also a guest at the Logies, left for the East last week.
