

David Cassidy says his new series, "David Cassidy: Man Undercover," premiering on NBC-TV Nov. 2, is a tremendous opportunity for an actor.

"Every week I get to be someone else, there is also a tremendous amount of work. Long, long days and I am trying to also maintain my family life. Just like the character I play, I'm afraid I'm bringing my work home."

David is married to actress Kay Lenz, of course. When I mentioned to him that I worked with her once and liked her so much (we have a love for dogs in common), he smiled and said, "I like her too."
