

Wham's George Michael meets David

GEORGE MICHAEL, of Wham, has agreed to write a song for former teen idol David Cassidy.

"David remembers what it was like to be screamed at by thousands of girls, so we had plenty in common," says George after the pair had dined in London.

Ten years ago, David—now 34—was top of the pops and had his own TV series. But today it is George and partner Andrew Ridgley who rule the charts.

George, 20, says: "David is a great guy and I just hope I can come up with the right song. I was never a fan myself but lots of my old classmates were—mainly the girls."
