

I'm David Cassidy . . . remember?

ACTOR and pop singer David Cassidy flew into Britain today and asked: "I wonder if my old fans will still remember me?"

David, 34, is in London for a honeymoon with his new wife Meryl Tanz and her nine-year-old daughter, Caroline.

He said: "It seemed a good idea to come to London for a honeymoon because I have so many great memories of the place from the 70s. We're here for just a short time and then I'm going back to work."

David, who topped the charts 10 years ago with hits like Could It Be For Ever, quit the pop world at the height of his fame to become a rancher.

But he said today: "I've got my appetite back for music and I'm going to release a new single called The Last Kiss. I wonder if my old fans will still remember me?"
