From television to recording and record-breaking concert tours and from Broadway to Las Vegas production shows, David Cassidy has made his mark and been lauded with awards and nominations ranging from Grammy's to Emmy's, Performer of the Year, and many more. David has certainly proven that it is talent that keeps people coming to shows, turning on the television, and buying records. "Yes, I still call them records," says Cassidy.

Hailing from a family of actors, mother Evelyn Ward and father Jack Cassidy, his fate as a performer was essentially seeded at a young age. It was by coincidence that he wound up starring with stepmother Shirley Jones in "The Partridge Family."

David was responsible for seven chart-topping Partridge Family singles including "Doesn't Somebody Want To Be Wanted," "I Woke Up In Love This Morning," "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do," and of course, "I Think I Love You", the best selling record of 1971. As a solo artist, David has had hit singles including "Cherish," "Could It Be Forever," "How Can I Be Sure," "Rock Me Baby" and "Lyin' to Myself." His 2004 CD, "Then and Now," was in the Top Five and reached platinum status.

Never one to rest on his laurels, he went to Broadway where he starred in the original production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat." London beckoned so he starred at the prestigious West End in "Time" with Sir Laurence Olivier. In 1994 he once again broke box office records in the stunning production of "Blood Brothers", starring with brother, Shaun. The road tour of the United States and Canada was SRO.

In 1996, David took on his next challenge and moved to Las Vegas to star at the MGM Grand in the $75 million extravaganza "EFX." Under David's creative direction and by entirely re-vamping the show, it became the most successful production in Las Vegas. The MGM acknowledged that he was singularly responsible for bringing over 1 million paid customers to see "EFX". Within four months of opening, the show was voted "Best Production Show" in Las Vegas, and David was voted "Best All Around Performer" and "Best Singer." In 1999, David was again named "Best All Around Performer," "Entertainer of the Year" and "Show Star of the Year."

The success of his most recent recordings keeps his touring schedule quite full and has brought him back to the UK where the scene is reminiscent of the '70s. Interest in the superstar has led to an autobiography entitled "Could It Be Forever? My Story" (Headline Books). It shot to #4 on the bestseller list in England in just two weeks.

His current CD, "David Cassidy: Part. II The Remix" (180 Music), is a 21st century spin on his classic hits with newly recorded vocals and keyboard mastery by Craig J (Madonna, Kelly Clarkson, Mariah Carey), who is also responsible for the amazing dance mixes. The songs are getting rave reviews in clubs everywhere, bringing him a new generation of fans. The CD is available in all Target stores throughout the United States.

In addition to performing, producing, writing and recording, David's passion and avocation lie with the thoroughbred horses that he breeds and that race at tracks throughout the country.

David lives in Florida with his wife, songwriter Sue Shifrin-Cassidy, and their 17 year-old son Beau.
