Hi there!

It's Autumn again, but far from getting cooler, things seem to be hotting up a bit for all David's fans. The long absence is over, and the ice has begun to break! Of course, David's been filming the Partridge Family for more than a month now, as he tells you in his personal letter, and he's just about back in the groove. That's not the only good news, though.

It seems like the ice has broken on the recording scene too — and about time! So we should all be hearing some very new sounds by the time you read this, and there's lots more on tape just waiting to be released.

Now that all the noise has died down about David "quitting", we can begin to assess what this newest phase in his career really means. Of course, David has taken this step to give himself more freedom. There's no way he's going to leave the music and acting world, but he is going to be doing different things.

David's new freedom is good news for everyone, but especially for us — because David intends to try lots of new things and that could very well mean we'll be seeing more of him!

Just think: only a few weeks ago, so many of us were worried that we might never see David again. It just goes to show that the old adage about every cloud having a silver lining is still fairly accurate.

This month we've got two features which we're sure you'll enjoy. Everyone is always asking if David has changed since he's become a star, and once and for all, the question is answered: YES! But before you begin to worry, turn to page 4 and read the truth — it's not as bad as you think.

And on page 24, you'll be able to find out what David's secret fear is. We all have our own secret fears of course, but because David is a special sort of a guy, he has a special kind of fear as well.

Oh, and before we forget, a big thank you is in store for Fiona Strong, of South London. Fiona has sent in a collection of over 900 pictures of David. In her letter, she said she's been collecting them for over two and a half years now. You should have seen all those pictures.

Speaking of gifts, we've got one more thing to add, and it's a message from David. He's asked us to thank you very much for all the wonderful presents you've sent him, but to please, please hold off. David's very grateful, but he's concerned about the amount of time so many of you are spending on making fantastic presents for him that he just doesn't have the space for. He reckons that he has enough shirts and jumpers to last a lifetime. So keep the Christmas, Birthday and Easter cards coming in, but please respect David's wishes and spend your time and money on yourself because that's what he wants you to do.
