

YOUR LETTERS

CASSIDY CORRESPONDENCE

Dear Pat,

Here's some great news for D.C. fans. I'm running a club called The David Cassidy Correspondence Club. The special thing about it is that whenever fans find they have to travel alone to see David, there's no need to worry because I will arrange to meet those fans and we'll all go along to see David together.

We can chat over the phone and write and, of course, meet each other when David comes over. For details, please write to Sharon Pascual, 63 Gelston Point, Burwell Close, Commercial Road, London, E1 2NR. Please enclose S.A.E.

A POEM

*I love you, David, I need you so,
If only I could go
To America where you are,
Then I wouldn't be so very far
From my fantastic Superstar.*

*Your eyes are so bright and full of life,
Your hair shines like stars at night,
Your smile brings me happiness
Even when I'm depressed.
So, David, when I say I love you,
Please believe me, because it's true!*

DERVISHA HI, London.

YELLOW JOURNALISM

Dear Pat,

I was looking at some back issues of one of the big national newspapers when I found a pop article which made me squirm. Here's some snippets from it:

'Cassidy and Bolan, who have both made fortunes out of singing electric nursery rhymes' . . . 'Cassidy, who last year stacked £200,000 into the bank, convinced his fans for a long time that he was really a dewy-eyed 16-year-old.'

The article also said that the editor of a well-known teen magazine claimed that David would be finished in three or four months and would be replaced by Simon Turner, Ricky Wilde and Donna Newman.

Two of these 'three or four month' periods have already passed, but David is still as popular as ever and will probably go on for many more.

Surely these reporters realise that not one word they say is true?

DOROTHY HARDON, Workington, Cumberland. If you examine what these people say, Dorothy, you'll realise that what they are doing is not so much lying as expressing their personal opinion — which everyone is entitled to do. If they think David's songs are

'electric nursery rhymes', then that's their loss. At least we've got some good taste! The best thing to do about articles like this is to say to yourself: well, that person obviously doesn't like David, then just don't pay any further attention to it! Every star comes in for their share of the knocks as well as the praise. It's just a shame that some people can be so nasty without even having met the star concerned. ED

BIG THANK YOU

Dearest David,

I would like to say a very big 'thank you' for your latest single. It's the best thing since cornflakes (apart from you!).

I would also like to thank you for coming over for the 'Top of the Pops' 500th Anniversary. It's so nice to know that you can find time on your busy schedule to see us.

I look forward to the release of your next album which will no doubt be fantastic (as usual). When you do your next tour, please, please, please do one in Liverpool. Before I forget, I thought you looked really lubly on the record cover.

P.S. Please print this letter as I'm sure all David's fans feel the same way about his latest single.

JANET CLARKE, Birkenhead, Cheshire.

We've done what you wanted and printed your letter, Janet. I'm sure David will be very pleased to read it. LED

DAVID'S IMAGE WAXES

Dear Pat!

I was on holiday in Great Yarmouth recently and I went to the Waxworks. Some new models had just come in. Imagine my surprise when I found one of them was . . . David Cassidy! I thought other D.C. fans, who might be visiting the area, might like to know.

JANICE GALLOWAY, Leicester.
