Hi there!

Just as we promised you last month, we've got the complete story of David's recent visit to Britain. Of course, we knew exactly who to contact to get the best possible narrative of how David spent his time here: David Bridger. Dave B is Dave C's best mate in this country, and he was able to witness most of David's comings and goings. Luckily, he also agreed to tell the story to us in a wonderful afternoon of conversation and reminiscence, and you can read all about it on page 4.

If that isn't enough, in his Personal Letter, on page 19, David Cassidy has been kind enough to give you his own impression of a visit he truly enjoyed. Apparently, David only had one objection to his stay here . . . and that, thank goodness, was that it was just too short!!

By now all of you should know about the Treasure Hunt that will be taking place in the City of London on Sunday the 18th of November. The group that sponsors this is the Muscular Dystrophy Group of Great Britain, and first prize is something none of David's fans would want to pass up: a chance to fly to Hollywood to meet David in person!!! The details are on page 9 of this issue, and it's so easy to enter, it just seems a shame not to have a go.

One of the most difficult parts of David's rise to Superstardom has been the incredible demands made upon him by the world's press. In the last three years, all too little of David's life has been private. Of course, we're only too anxious to read about David, and most of the time, David is willing and grateful to give the press a good story. But sometimes, for reasons that are really beyond anyone's control, the pressures on everyone get to be too great. On page 24, you can read what David has to say about the press and the publicity — both good and bad — he receives.

This month, the song we've chosen is "The Puppy Song", which is on the "B" side of "Day-dreamer". We don't usually call attention to the songwriters, but this time we thought it might interest you. You see, "The Puppy Song" was written by Harry Nilsson, who has a pretty strong record as a singer, as well as a songwriter.

Incidentally, if you notice, the first line in "The Puppy Song" is the title of David's new album. "Dreams Are Nothing More Than Wishes" has been out for less than two weeks, but it certainly is one of the year's top albums. Of course, we're prejudiced, but it really is a very fine collection of songs.

But the really important thing about "Dreams Are Nothing More Than Wishes" is that it certainly does answer a lot of the people who doubted that David could change his style. The songs on this album are definitely proof that the new Cassidy is every bit as good as the "old" model, and even better!
