

Your Letters

PREMATURE

Dear Ed,

I'm writing to point out the rubbish that some papers print. Recently I read an article entitled "No Rush For Cassidy Pop Show". I was really shocked, I just don't know how they could print this about David and his fans.

From an
ANGRY FAN, Romford, Essex

We know exactly what you mean, and so do a lot of David's fans. We've had fifty letters saying just the same thing.

The fact is, some people have such a high opinion of David that they expect his concerts to sell out immediately. But what they don't take into consideration is that the concert tickets went on sale almost four months in advance. And, of course, David's fans didn't have to rush out immediately and wait for hours to get their tickets: they were generously permitted to order them through the post.

If anyone doubts that there was a great demand for tickets, I'm sure some very tired and devoted people in the post room at White City and Shawfields could tell them a thing or two! ED

INSPIRATIONAL

Dear Pat,

I do hope that David reads this letter, as I'd like to thank him for being such an interesting and beautiful person.

Not long ago I was preparing for exams, and I was really dreading French (certainly not one of my hottest subjects!). Anyway, we had to choose a subject to work on, and I chose David for my subject.

Well, I was suffering from a chronic case of pre-exam nerves, and as I walked into the examination room, I felt like turning and running, but after I'd played a couple of tracks of David's records, I actually began to feel confident, and what do you know? I got a real good grade!

Love,
CHERYL COSTARD, Jersey

GOOD NEWS

Dear Ed,

I would like to tell you that I am disgusted with a certain evening newspaper. Recently it told of "Good news to Cassidy 12-year-old fans" (about David's concert in London).

Well, what's wrong with 12 year olds? And not all David's fans are 12 years old, I'm 15, and my cousin is 5.

David has so many fans of all ages that newspapers should not pretend that only younger people like him.

Ever yours,
SHARON DAWSON, London

We couldn't agree more, Sharon. David's fans are of all ages, from seven to seventy, and from every country you can imagine. Let's just hope that David's concerts this month will show everyone, including that newspaper, why David does have fans of all ages. ED

SILVER LINING

Dear Pat,

During my visit to Singapore, I was feeling depressed for a couple of days, because it suddenly became very dark and started to rain. And after travelling so far, it was a drag having to put up with some typically British weather.

But as we began to do some sightseeing, I found something that really cheered me up. When all the girls started coming out of school, I soon noticed that four out of five of them had their notebooks, etc. covered with pics of David. It really did cheer me up! It just shows that David does have fans all over the world. Lots Luv.

KIM WILLIAMS, Hayes, Middx.

You're certainly right there, Kim. The latest reports from Hong Kong, Osaka, Japan, and Tokyo demonstrate that the East is just as keen on Cassidy as we are! ED
