Hello!

First of all, I want to give all of you who wrote in to rave about David's brilliant album a massive thank you. You see, even though David finally made the break with this album, into doing more of the sort of music that he wants to do, he was worried that he might be the only one who liked it! I know that sounds silly, but he was ever so pleased to discover that the British bunch were as loyal as ever.

Of course, an album like David Cassidy Live doesn't require loyalty so much as it does good taste to appreciate it. And it ought to make all those people who have been saying that David can't sing rock and roll sit up and have a second think!

I really believe that I like this album more than any of the others, although personally I have a fondness for Dreams Are Nuthin' More Than Wishes. I just hope that no one ever makes me choose between the two!

Before I go any further, I just have to tell you about the all new fan club wallet. So many of you are just about coming up for renewal that I just wanted to let you know that we have a totally new, redesigned wallet, and I know that it's the best ever. And despite the change in postage, we're going to keep the price of the wallet the same!

When you think about it, so few things have stayed the same price in the last few months that this just has to be one of the best bargains around.

And speaking of bargains, we seemed to have announced one in two past issues without meaning to! It's my fault really, and I'm terribly sorry. As you can see at the top of the page, the fan club price is 86p, which includes V.A.T. But in the June and July issues, we incorrectly announced the old price, which was 76p. That doesn't include V.A.T., and it has confused so many of you that I thought I had better clear it up now.

So, once again, the price of a membership in the fan club is 86p, alright?

Rumours are running around Hollywood that David is nearly ready to sign for a role in an important film, starring Roger Moore!

I don't know all the details yet, but the last time I spoke to David, he was considering it. Of course, as he told me at the time, he isn't really free to talk about it with anyone until the details are all sorted out.

That's just about all for this month. I'll see you in October.

Before I forget, I know Pat has already mentioned it, but the correct price for that souvenir programme is 25p, plus 5p for postage.
