Hi there!

Well, here it is October again. I know some of you must be starting to feel that the end of the year is near, and that David seems farther away than ever from us, so I've got a bit of good news for everyone.

To begin with, there's the very good news that David has got another album on the way. Of course, Pat told you about this a couple of months ago, but the news that David may be working with David Bowie, following Bowie's current three month tour of the United States and Canada, was certainly a surprise to most of us.

I just want to reassure you that David won't be changing radically. There isn't anything to worry about, he'll be the same old David in so many ways.

You see, he has long admired David Bowie as a producer and it just seems the most natural thing to do, after Cassidy Live!, to make a really big break and bring in someone with a fresh approach. But if you had hoped (or perhaps feared!) that David would return to the concert scene dressed in gear like Bowie's, I'm afraid that there's very little chance of that.

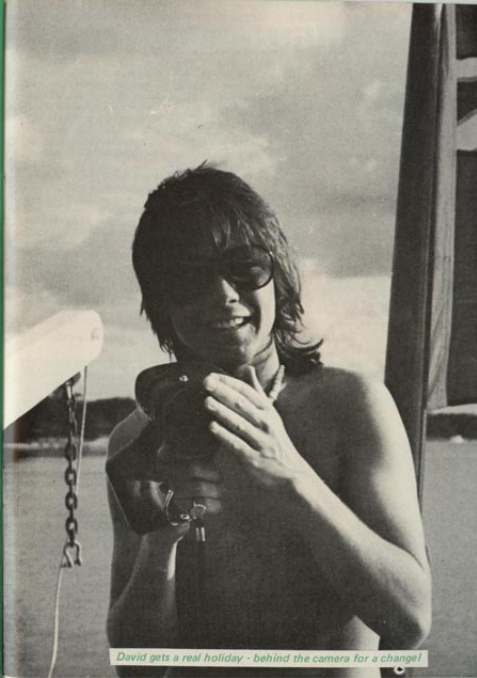

No, it still looks like we'll have to wait awhile before we see David again in anything on stage. He's still sounding out a hundred and one activities at the moment, including that film I told you about, with Roger Moore. So for now, we'll just have to wait awhile and keep our fingers crossed.

Who knows, the next time we see David in this country, he may not be doing a tour at all! I know for sure that he has expressed a great deal of interest in doing some kind of a T. V. special here. A number of top stars have done this in the past, and I know that David could count on a ready-made audience—including you, Pat and I, not to mention a lot of others!

Since the release of Cassidy Live!, Pat and I have received quite a lot of mail from older fans of David. They all agree that this is the best thing that David has done so far! I can't help but quote one of them, from a fan in Ashby-de-la-Zouch. She wrote "I was very much surprised to hear the sheer enjoyment that seems to have been the rule at Mr Cassidy's concerts here. After all the bad news, it was a pleasant surprise to hear young people really enjoying themselves, not to mention Mr Cassidy's obvious respect and admiration for his fans. Bravo!"

Well, that just about says it all, doesn't it? That's all from me for this month.
See you in November.

Susie
