Hello!

We're really pleased with this issue of the magazine, because we're bringing you quite a few things that nobody has seen before. Just for a start, we've got some exclusive photographs of David taken when he's enjoying himself the most—relaxing with his friends. If you are a regular reader, it won't surprise you to know that David isn't exactly formal, but I think that you'll be glad to see exactly how informal his idea of a good time can be.

And, as you saw on the cover, it looks like a couple of very talented, very famous Davids will be making the news in the near future, not to mention making musical history! But that's only one of the surprises we have in our first feature. David has finally opened up to one of America's major television networks. In a recent interview with American Broadcasting Corporation's top young reporter, Geraldo Rivera, David cleared the air about a number of things that have been troubling his fans for quite awhile.

And something that has been troubling David a little bit is one of the things that he talks about in this month's letter. I'm sure that you all read about David's unlucky attempt in the oil business. Well, as he tells you in the letter, it surprised him a bit too! But in typical Cassidy fashion, David managed to shrug it off with hardly a worry.

Just like David, isn't it? Money has never meant much to him. Even in the days when he was one step from being on the dole, David was more concerned with people and his career than he was with making money.

I also want to remind you that this month is your last chance to enter the Meet David Cassidy in California competition. This is really such a good opportunity that I hope you'll forgive me if I seem to go on about it a little bit. But just think of it, meeting David in Hollywood! What more could any Cassidy fan-cier ask for than a fabulous all expenses paid trip to sunny Los Angeles, and a chance to spend the afternoon with David!

Now that I think about it, I wonder if I shouldn't enter myself! But seriously, this is a very worthwhile and charitable activity, and I hope that you will make the most of it.

That's just about all for this month. As I said, I hope you like this issue of the mag. We've all worked hard to bring you the best one possible, so if you like it, drop us a line and let us know.

But if you have any complaints, we want to hear those, too. After all, our job is to bring you the best mag we can, so if you have any suggestions, let us know about them.

Who knows, your idea may help us to bring you even more of what you like in the mag, and that will be good news for everyone!

See you next month.
