Hello there!

When I look at all the thousands of official membership cards it makes me realise just how fast and furious the David Cassidy Fan Club has grown over the past few months.

Back in the Autumn of 1971 we only used to get hundreds of new members in a month—now it is usually thousands!

Don't forget that all of you are entitled to take advantage of the pen pal columns of the David Cassidy Magazine to put you in touch with friends (male or female) all over the U.K. and many overseas countries as well. As you can see from the pen pal messages inserted in this issue, all you have got to do is to send your name, age and address, interests and details of the places where you would like to get pen pals to Pat and she'll try and publish it in the next issue.

Although you are more likely to get replies from David fanatics in this country than overseas, our circulation is growing very fast in other countries, so if you do really want to write to somebody in Austria, Australia, Holland or the States then it is always worth putting it down.

The great thing is that you can strike up a friendship with interesting people who also like David Cassidy. In fact, this is one of the things that David likes about having his own magazine—it does enable people all over the world to get together.

I know that most of you love singing the lyrics of David's songs—and Partridge Family songs for that matter. Normally we put the words of one song into the David Cassidy Magazine but now you can also usually get the lyrics of another one in our new sister publication (perhaps I should say 'brother' publication) MICKIE MESSAGE and SONGBOOK and the second issue has the lyrics of David Cassidy's 'We Could Never Be Friends'.

I still get lots of people writing in to me asking how they can join the Fan Club. Well, it is very simple. All you have to do is to send a letter to me giving me your name and address in block capitals (do write this clearly otherwise our reply may go to the wrong address) and send it together with a postal order or cheque for 75p, made out to The David Cassidy Fan Club, to the address at the top of the page.

See you next month.

Susie
