

YOUR LETTERS

Wrong Track

Dear Ed.,
In your review of David's Cherish album, you said that the first track on side two was Being Together. Surely it is We could never be friends (Cause we've been lovers too long).

Other than this mistake, I think your mag is super and I'd like to say a big "Thank you" to you for giving all David Cassidy fans the chance to know more about him, as well as all those super pix you print.

SALLY EDWARDS, WEYMOUTH, DORSET.
'Er . . . blush, blush . . . we were so carried away with David's super voice that we got all mixed up. Sorry! ED.

447 David Pix

Dear Ed.,
Has any fan of David's beaten me so far in collecting pix of David? I have 447 at the moment but I know that I will be getting more soon, so by the time you print this letter I should have 500.

MAXINE VARLEY, BLACKPOOL.
Drop me a line saying how many pix you've got and we'll print details of the largest amount in next month's issue! ED

What About The Boys?

Dear Ed.,
Aren't we boys allowed to like David Cassidy? I know most of his fans are girls but surely some of us lads like him? I like his records, having bought a copy of his LP Cherish, but every mag I read about him is directed to a completely feminine public.

I bought your magazine a week ago and I reckon it is pretty good, but could you ask David to say hello to his male followers (I can hardly say 'lads', can I?) and let everyone know there are some males who like him and his records.

Thanks a lot.
NEIL HARVEY, BOURNEMOUTH.
I shall certainly pass on your message to David next time I speak to him. Neil, in the meantime, what does everyone think of Neil's comments? ED.

Mention Scotland

Dear Ed.,
What's wrong with Scotland? We have read in the first issue of your David Cassidy Magazine that David will probably be appearing in London and we were wondering why he doesn't appear in, or even mention, Scotland.

Does he think he has no fans up here? I can assure you he has plenty.
JANET LAMB & SUSAN ROSS, EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND.

Scotland's a great place, Janet and Susan, and David thinks so, too. He knows from the amount of letters he receives that he has hundreds of fans there and his one regret is that it is not he himself who makes the decisions about where he is to give concerts. 'Cos there are loads of places he's simply dying to visit if he ever gets the time! ED.

Had to Write

Dear Ed.,
After reading about Kula in the David Cassidy Mag., we just had to write because we know through experience what it is like to lose your most treasured possession.

We would be most grateful if you would pass a message on to David telling him to cheer up and enjoy life, because neither Sam or Kula would want him to be unhappy. Tell him he must try and cheer up even if it's only for his dogs' sake.
TWO OF HIS MOST FAITHFUL FANS.

Many more of you, too, write in to express your sympathy for David's loss. David thanks you all from the bottom of his heart and says he feels much better now that he knows he has so many friends thinking of him. ED.
