

ABOVE: Shirley and David love to tease each other on the set.
BELOW: Only Danny seems to miss the joke!

Cassidy The Conqueror

1973 PLAN OF ATTACK

He'll be leaping onto a flight which will bring him direct to Manchester on Monday 12th March. So that's the day when there's likely to be a sudden rise in absentee figures at school and at work!

BREATHLESS

Then David will be starting his killer schedule of concerts in Britain. It's fantastic for all Cassidy fans, of course, but this programme of ten concerts in six days is really going to strain David's stamina to breaking point. Remember, the whole weight of the concert's success will be resting on him, and he's only too well aware of this!

As his friend, Sam Hyman, pointed out:

"It would be different if David was part of a group because, with several guys on stage, they can all have spells of taking the heat off the others. But, for David, it's always gotta be all out right the way through. He'll never let up the intensity of his performance for a moment — even towards the end of a second show. You see, he reckons that it's only fair to the different audiences to keep his performance as good as he can possibly make it. Otherwise it would mean that some shows would be seeing a better show than others."

David has waited so long for this chance to do live concerts for his British fans, that his main concern when the schedule was being drawn up was to fix it so that he could make contact with as many folk as possible.

Let's hope that, in thinking about his fans, he hasn't pushed self-interest too much into the background... King's Hall, Belle Vue, Manchester —
 Tuesday 13th March at 5.30 p.m. and 8.30 p.m. and Wednesday 14th March at 5.30 p.m. and 8.30 p.m.
 Empire Pool, Wembley Friday 16th March at 8.00 p.m.
 Saturday 17th March at 12.00 noon, 4.00 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.
 Sunday 18th March at 4.00 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.

Where David Cassidy is concerned, no plan can ever be accurately described as 'definite' till it's been put into action and actually happened!

That's not because David is subject to fits of mind-changing or anything like that. It is simply because there are an unbelievable number of things which have to be considered and, if any one of them goes wrong, then that's the cue for another "All change!" as far as the plans go...

So it's impossible to guarantee that David's current plans for his European tour will be, in every detail, the ones that will become reality in March.