

I could tell that his audience knew it too!

I love the way he's able to get a personal feeling into his concert—catching and putting on the love beads tossed onstage without missing a beat, and singling out faces in the crowd. At one frantic moment, a girl broke through the guards ringing the stage. Her reward was a big smile from Bobby as he bent and touched her hand.

As I watched him, I remembered how Bobby had once told me how making his fans happy was the most important thing to him. Just looking at his smile and the sparkle in his bright blue eyes was enough to show how he felt. When he finished "Little Woman," the cheers rang through the huge auditorium, and he stood quietly, his eyes sweeping the audience. I couldn't hear his words, but I could read his lips. He was saying, "I love you."

NEW OSMOND in the group soon will be 6-year-old Jimmy, who has a solo recording hit in Japan's top ten!

It was kind of hard to settle down to work after all that excitement, but the ways things happen around FaVE, nothing is dull for too long! One of the sweetest and prettiest girls I've met in a long time stopped by last week. Her name is Susan Dey, and she's costarring with David Cassidy in "The Partridge Family," so she'll be a familiar face in your home soon! Since filming of the series started, Susan and David have become very close friends. "My professional experience is mainly modeling," confides Susan, "and since David's done so much acting, he's really helped me a lot!"

You can hardly turn the pages of a fashion magazine without seeing photos of Susan, and she's promised to work with FaVE on some "how-to" beauty tips for you readers. By the way, if you're one of David's fans, don't fret about any romance rumors that will probably start flying about him and Susan. They're just buddies!

Mitch Vogel called to tell me some happy news. He's been signed to seven episodes in "Bonanza" next season, with a strong possibility of becoming a regular on the series. "I was kind of disappointed when my own series didn't sell," he said, "but it seems like everything always works out for the best!"

MORE TEENAGE interest is planned for the TVer "Square World of Ed Butler" (above with Frankie Avalon and "Hair's" Jennifer Warren). Ed will be spicing up his talk-type show with some of your favorites like Bobby Sherman, etc.!

What Mitch says is true—when an actor is really talented and well-liked, things do come their way. Robert Lipton's short stay with the cancelled "Adventurers" series brought him down, but not for long! He's just completed a guest starring role in "The Name of the Game," and is now up for the lead in his own show!

Another guest starring chore for an equally talented actor—Frank Webb plays a Vietnam veteran in an upcoming "Mission Impossible." Just remember when you see him that there's another talent he hasn't even revealed to you yet—he sings something fantastic! It's only a matter of time before he'll be knocking you out with that voice of his!

Trouble for Rick Ely! He couldn't wait to start shooting "The Young Rebels," because he told me waiting around made him nervous! Well maybe he had something to worry about after all! On the first day of filming he was doing a fight scene that got a bit too realistic! The result was a broken thumb for Rick, and now they're using camera angles so his cast won't show until he's healed! Hope that's the last of that kind of trouble, Rick!

HUNDREDS of fans were on hand to greet the Osmonds in Japan and Donny obliges with some autographs!
