

The first thing fans usually want to know about any exciting new guy is what kind of girls he likes.

Most guys who've got enough going for them to become popular and successful aren't narrow minded enough to like one particular type of girl—short girls, tall girls, blondes, red heads, etc. So it's usually kind of difficult for a guy to tell you exactly what it is about certain girls that appeals to him.

When we posed the question to David Cassidy, he at first didn't quite know what to say. He sat back and thought about it a minute and finally came up with this answer.

"That's really a difficult question. There's no set form to go along with. I see girls who attract me for various reasons. I just like alive girls, girls who've got something to say, girls who feel things and who don't feel one way just because I feel that way or because that's the way she thinks everyone should feel.

"And I particularly don't like super liberals and super conservatives—

DAVID CASSIDY

"I like girls who aren't just tripping from day to day, just existing, waiting for that day when they get married. And, of course, I like girls who are interested in the things I'm interested in. I don't like girls who are hung up materially.