Dear FLIP,

All your articles on Jack Wild have been entertaining, but you have surpassed yourself in the recent interview conducted by Keith Altham (December issue). The direct quotes and definite views expressed all helped to show a side of Jack that others haven't bothered to touch on. I got the impression he was a human being, not a blank-faced little goody-goody. Keep up the good work!

Dear FLIP,

This is to Kathleen Smith (February issue) and I want to correct one of the things she said. In the first place, Jack Wild did not say that Bob Dylan couldn't sing. He said that he didn't like him, that Bob Dylan wasn't his scene. Also, FLIP didn't say that Jack said Bob Dylan couldn't sing. I think if you should be mad at anybody, you should be mad at Jack Wild.

Dear FLIP,

There was a girl named Denise Harris (January issue) who said that some of the girls who write to you are really putting down certain stars. Well, there are two sides to the story. 1) Denise is right, you shouldn't say bad things about a certain star. They really are trying their best to let people know they can perform just as good as the next guy. It's a constant struggle to get to the top, but once you reach it the only place to go is down. 2) The Flipflap section is put in FLIP for us to tell FLIP how we really feel about something or someone. We're lucky to have a magazine like FLIP that has a section for their readers to express their feelings about the stars who are here now.

Dear FLIP,

To the girl in the February issue of FLIP: I beat you! I have 232 pictures of David Cassidy and 24 articles. I hope David reads this because I know you're the greatest guy in the world!

Dear FLIP,

In your February issue a girl wrote in saying that she loved David Cassidy so much that she had 198 pictures of him. Well, I've got 455 pictures of him (not counting all of the doubles!). And I'm signing my letter . . .

Dear FLIP,

I just got done reading your February issue of FLIP, and boy is it great! Instantly I turned to the groovy pic of my all time fav, David Cassidy, and about "oohed and aahed" myself to death! I agree with Lisa Potter and the other "David Lovers" about how darling he is, because I received the privilege of standing next to him when he attended our annual Christmas parade in late November.

JACK WILD

That Wednesday I got the TV magazine. In my usual search through the movie section I came across the title "To Die in Paris." I said to myself, "No, stupid, Philippe Forquet can't be in that movie." Well, for the first time in my life, something terrific surprised me. When I looked to see who starred in the movie, guess who's name appeared? Philippe Forquet! I just couldn't believe it! I shook all over! Well, now it's Tuesday and the movie is on Thursday. It's exactly 2 days, 3 hours and 6 minutes till I see Philippe in action. I can hardly wait!
