

WHILE DAVID AND SAM were off scuba diving in Hawaii, they made sure that their favorite pets were being well taken care of. Before leaving DAVID registered his and Sam's dogs (Sam and Sheesh) in an exclusive Beverly Hills Pet Hotel. There they were not only kept comfortable in an adjoining, carpeted "suite," but were serenaded with piped in music. I wonder if they got to hear "I Think I Love You?"

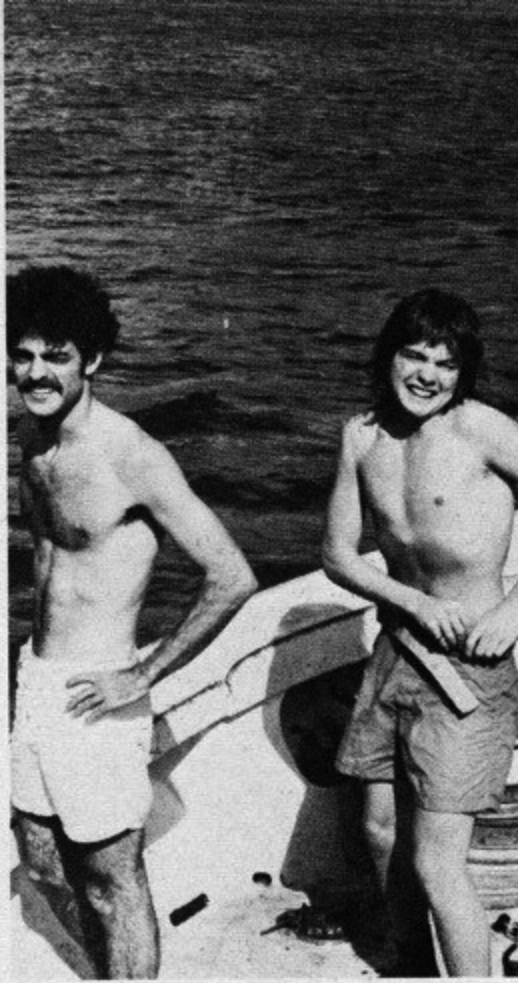

There's so many things that SAM didn't have room to tell you about in his diary of their fabulous vacation, that I thought I might pass on some of the groovy tales DAVID told me on their return. For one thing, he couldn't stop raving about the wonderful meals they had three times a day! "There's something about that crystal clear air and the sea breeze that makes you wake up with a hole in your stomach! I ate three times as much food as I usually eat, but never gained a pound. And it was all fresh healthy food, which was nice."

A typical breakfast, DAVID said, consisted of guava juice, papaya juice, fresh pineapple slices, ham, bacon, sausage, scrambled eggs, Danish pastry and milk! DAVID'S favorite "exotic dish" was turtle steak, which he tried for dinner one night and both he and SAM just couldn't get enough of the islands' famous speciality Macadamia Nut Pie.

It turns out that DAVID and SAM chose an absolutely perfect week to DAVID CASSIDY!! Because they are both top teen idols (with equal stature in my opinion) scandal magazines and newspapers are quick to throw out wild titles on their covers about the fight between them (there is none), that they hated each other (they don't) or that they are both madly in love with Susan Dey (neither are, because she has her own private life!) Anyway, I just wanted to add this word of warning, because when DAVID and BOBBY did meet, they were both happy to finally get to know one another and it was a very friendly scene all around!

go to Maui, because the weather was beautiful all during their stay, but one fan they met while on the island wrote to them saying that the day after they left it rained for a week!

Don't believe the tales you'll be hearing about feuding or bad vibrations between BOBBY SHERMAN and

I was really sad to hear that FRANK WEBB had both his new puppies (Fat Albert and Murphy) stolen! He had only had them a few weeks when he returned home one night to find them gone. On a happier note, when it was printed that FRANK loves, loves, loves Tapioca pudding, one ambitious fan sent FRANK a whole case of pudding! He asked me to please mention that he loved the present, but that he has plenty for a long while! Okay, FRANK?

Wow! Just before going to press, I got to hear an advance copy of BOBBY SHERMAN'S new album and is it a gas. Like all of BOBBY'S other LP's each song seems groovier than the last. One song I really dug was "Bubblegum and Braces." It's a really cute, up-beat number that you just can't resist singing along! The album, BOBBY told me, was due out in March, so it should be in your local record store soon, if it's not already!
