

DAVID A GO-GO

When David Cassidy of The Partridge Family, chief idol of the teeny-bopper set these days, goes away for a weekend, he doesn't pick a quiet lake in the woods. It's places like Salt Lake City, San Diego and Columbus, Ohio, for him, the garden spots of America. No picnicking is involved. He goes to sing and be seen. Seen he is, by hundreds of screaming girls at every airport and by girls who stick their heads into his limousine for autographs (upper left). But 13-year-old girls can get to be a bore to a mature type like David (he's 21), so he takes along some buddies to help while away the lonely hours. Room-mate Sam Hyman (dark glasses, center picture) and guitar-player Steve Ross (behind David) are among the traveling entourage which also includes a band, a musical director, bodyguards and pals. When David gets off the plane (right) in a strange town that turns out to be Columbus, Ohio, he'll have somebody to talk to. Below, he is saying something wise and witty to a girl friend, Robin Milland. She obviously knows a teenage idol when she sees one. (E)
