

FAVE FLASHES FAVE FLASHES FAVE FLASHES FAVE FLASHES BY JOHNNY JASON

JACK WILD has really been busy these past months making movies. His newest is "The Pied Piper" now filming in Germany. JACK stars with British pop singer DONOVAN . . . For all his success, JAN MICHAEL VINCENT has still remained the same relatively "unaffected" guy he's always been. Reports have said that JAN not only played his role in "Tribes" he lived it. "Tribes" as you recall was a "Movie of the Week" about a long-haired kid inducted into the Marines with beard, beads, sandals and all. He was willing to act like a Marine, but not think like one and they couldn't take that. The reports also went on to say that JAN supposedly lived in a hippie commune and after he got the part in "Tribes" he became a short-hair, real Establishment type. Well, not believing that of JAN I had to find out for myself. "I never lived in a commune," he told me. "I live in Topanga Canyon in the same house I had when we made the movie. I do cut my hair shorter. At first, long hair was a sort of symbol of protest, but that means nothing now. A lot of guys have decided long hair is unimportant, any outward appearance is superfluous — it's what you feel inside. Personally, I think it's natural to let your hair grow long, I like it, but it isn't worth the sweat." JAN's house is in the mountains above the sea where he keeps two horses, two monkeys, a collection of dogs and a parrot. He follows a vigorous health schedule, eats no meat, doesn't smoke or drink and eats only organic foods. He's still a surfing enthusiast, and those who see him on the beach recognize his peeling nose, sun-bleached hair and the moustache he's wearing lately. JAN, who once served with the Army and went through basic training at Fort Ord, said he hated every minute of the Army but the thing that was worse than that was playing in "The Survivors!" . . . There is a growing speculation in London that the BEATLES may be returning to the recording studio again, but, if so, it will definitely be without PAUL McCARTNEY. The most likely new member of the BEATLES, according to most reports, is KLAUS VOORMAN, a bass player who has been a friend of the BEATLES for years and who designed their "Revolver" album cover . . . LEN WHITING ("Romeo and Juliet") really meant it when he said he didn't want to be a teenage idol, but his latest picture "Say Hello to Yesterday" is only rated GP which means you can see it with parent consent. The story is about a 39-year-old housewife and a 22-year-old boy who fall in love . . . If you're still a "Laugh-In" fan prepare yourself for some gloomy news. ARTE JOHNSON "Very Interesting" is leaving the show . . . MARLO THOMAS has been missing from the local scene, but only briefly. She flew to San Francisco to accept the first Special Honors Award ever given by the San Francisco State College's Department of Broadcasting . . . If you remember "Peyton Place" (the television version) then you may remember PAT MORROW who played Rita Jacks—the girl who married Norman Harrington. PAT decided to turn her back on show business after her $150,000 a year job ended and is determined to become a lawyer, just like her father. PAT's finished her first year of study in Law and has two to go—more power
