

may be keeping them high on David's list.

First, there's David's other co-star in "The Partridge Family," Susan Dey. The two of them have become fast friends in the one year they've been working together on the show and spend a lot of their free time on the set talking together and sharing ideas and experiences. Though they both enjoy each other's company—and despite persistent rumors to the contrary—they don't really date. They have a lot of things in common—including their work—and their relationship is basically one of close friendship.

Among the girls David's seen in more special situations are Fredricka Myers and Lynn Dubian. Fredricka's a beautiful blonde while Lynn's an attractive brunette; both are fun-loving, interesting and quite enjoyable young ladies. David has had the pleasure of both girls' company on numerous occasions, yet he declines to say just how serious he's become with either.

"I take Fredricka and Lynn to films, plays, dinner and parties," he admits. "I know I'll always have a good time when I'm with either one of them. They're both rather 'un-Hollywood' and I really like that."

But of all the girls that David's seeing at the moment, there's one who seems to be showing up more and more. Though he doesn't often speak of her, he seems to get quite a gleam in his eye when he does. Her name is Judy Strangis, an actress with a regular role as Helen Loomis, one of the students in TV's "Room 222." David has known her since they were both students together at University High School in Los Angeles and they were each dating someone else.

"I've known Judy longer than any of the other girls I go out with," he says. "While we were in high school we found out that we lived near one another and had a lot of the same interests, so we became friends. Eventually we both broke up with the people we were dating and started dating one another."

Though David hadn't seen Judy in a couple of years, they got together again last year at an ABC party and began to renew their friendship. Since that time, they've seen quite a bit of one another, and to the casual observer, it looks like it could be the start of a very serious romance.

Neither David nor Judy are willing to say right now just how serious their relationship has become or just where it may lead. Though the word marriage may not have been spoken aloud, it certainly has been hinted at in their circle of friends. The question facing David right now is: is Judy his ideal girl. When he reaches his answer—an answer only he can give—and if it's a positive one, you can be sure that nothing will stop his marriage.
