Each month read all the fan club news about the Partridge Family right here in Cecilia Bonaduce's column!

As the Partridge flies, it's about five hundred miles north to Yosemite National Park, where Susan Dey and her good friend and stand-in, Jane Joyce went for a short vacation. For protection, Susan's big brother, (and by big we mean six feet, five inches!) Tommy went along. Tommy was visiting Susan from New York, and Susan decided that it would be a perfect opportunity for him to see California.

With a lot of borrowed equipment, including bed rolls and lanterns, and back packs, the three went out to conquer the wilderness. Apparently they succeeded, because they all came back without so much as a mosquito bite!

The youngest Partridge, Suzanne Crough winged even farther north to Canada where she met all sorts of new relatives. Well, they're not really new, Suzanne has just never met them before!

The plane touched down in Vancouver for an hour, just long enough for Suzanne to meet two of her aunts, Marian and Mary O'Malley, her mother's sister and sister-in-law.

Back on board, the Crouchs flew on to Edmonton, Alberta, where Suzanne met all kinds of relatives! Both grandmothers, O'Malley and Crough, and assorted aunts and uncles, and when you think of it, that's a lot of folks. Suzanne's mother has three sisters and two brothers, and Mr. Crough has two of each!

It was one of Mr. Crough's brothers, Father Emmett, who performed the marriage ceremony for Suzanne's oldest sister Linda. Linda and her husband Harry live in Connecticut and Suzanne is dying to get back there to see their new baby Heather. Just imagine having an aunt like Suzanne!

Even though the Crouchs didn't notify the press that they were coming, there were people from the local newspapers and ABC radio and television stations on hand to welcome them. It was all a very exciting time. Both Suzanne and her mother loved every minute of the trip and hope to go again soon.

Aside from visiting the relatives, Suzanne got time to do some sightseeing and reports that Canada is one of the all-time beautiful places in the world...

The Bonaduce's had a surprise party for Danny, and two friends of the family who share the same birthday! Dave Madden kept Danny busy all day, and by the time the party started, Dave looked like he was ready to go to sleep!

I gave one of the guests of honor a Partridge lunch box! The whole party broke up laughing, since nobody knew there was such a thing! Besides, the birthday boy was twenty-one, and we can't quite see him carrying a lunch box to Valley State.

Danny and his father flew east... just for a change of pace. They went to Rocky Point, Rhode Island. Rocky Point, for those of you who have never visited that pretty little place, is a very popular amusement park. Danny thought the whole trip was a blast... and wouldn't you if you could ride every amusement in sight for FREE? And without even waiting in line! It was great. Daddy Bonaduce wasn't quite so thrilled at the rides. Somehow or other, being stood on his head, or whirled and tumbled at the speed of light isn't his thing. But it all sounds pretty good to me. Maybe next trip, I'll get Danny to take me along.

DAVID AND SUSAN kept mum about the surprise birthday party for Danny!
