

"TAKE MY LOVE TEST HOW WE'D RATE TO

a lot of people at school. But even when I was going to school I didn't know many girls and very seldom went steady."

ABOUT HIS "PERFECT" GIRL—"Usually girls demand a lot from me. I don't like to have a relationship with a girl where I'm the big man and she's the meek girl. It's just people you know.

"I don't feel that I always have to pick her up and open doors for her and always decide what we're going to do. Those are nice courtesies, you know, and I usually do that whole thing. I don't believe chivalry is dead.

"But most of the girls I meet still feel that it's not cool for them to call me up. I have to always call them, and say 'Hey, who don't we do this?' or 'I'd really like to do this.' Maybe it's because I'm me, an actor, and they think I'm super busy and don't have time for them, so they're afraid their egos will be deflated. They always expect me to come pick them up and take them places and take them home. They never just drop by to see me, or come over to see me.

"Sure it's all very nice, and I don't mind being polite. I don't expect them to go Dutch, but I do like them to be a little independent. There's no reason why I should go through that whole game. It's just baloney.

"I like my girl to be an equal. I don't mean a liberated woman who's going to beat me up when I come home. I mean an equal partner.

"I like affectionate girls. And my girl should be someone who's going to surprise me and not just be the same as every other girl in the world.

"And the other thing she must be is without a doubt totally devoted to me, which is absurd because I can't think of anyone wanting to be totally devoted to me!"

ABOUT MARRIAGE—"I'm convinced I won't get married until I'm at least 30. I'm convinced of that. It's so rare that I meet anyone that I really like and am attracted to. I just don't meet that many that I'm attracted to who aren't hung up on ultra-violet grooving and all kinds of far out things. I seem to meet a lot of freaks, a lot of extremists."

ABOUT HAVING KIDS—"I'd like my son to be 6'2" and not have to have his teeth capped. But seriously, I can't even imagine what a kid of mine would look like or be like!"
