

Would you recall for us any fond incidents that you have of David as a child? For instance, his first toy, first animal or some of the early things that made him laugh?

He particularly liked a phonograph I gave him - he was 3. or 4 at the time. And he would imitate my singing "Wish You Were Here" - (song) to a girl (neighbor) from his bedroom window.

What sort of things did David do to keep occupied when he was growing up?

He loved his friends - boys, mostly - usual sort of sports - and he always liked music - dancing social functions.

Did you ever have to punish him? If so, how did he accept his punishment?

Yes - and he accepted it with regrets -

When did you first become aware of his interest in show business?

When he was twelve years old.
