don't you clean them then?" Danny and his mother thought that was very funny, but Steve mumbled something like, "As Queen Victoria once said... we ain't amused."

The group managed to limp to a gas station, where the repair bill was $35.00—which was roughly $35.00 too much for Steve. It seems he'd left his checkbook at home.

So Susan footed the bill, receiving a small kiss and a huge IOU from Steve. (The old battery may be seen during business hours at the Richfield Station at the corner of Fairfax and Sunset.)

Well, once again, our merry band was off to the party. A mere forty-five minutes late. When they arrived, the bellboy wouldn't let them in! Since everyone else had arrived nearly an hour ago, the bellboy must have assumed they were gate crashers. After much ado about nothing, the two young Partridges and their escorts (better known as Mom and Steve) were finally permitted to join the party.

Danny and Suzanne hit it off beautifully with the three Cassidy boys, while Jeremy was busy telling stories of his stay in Washington. He really loved it, and it's a fair guess that Washington loved him too.

David had prior commitments and couldn't attend the party. And speaking of absenteeism, Dave Madden wasn't there either.

Q. Dear Cecelia,

Is there any catch in joining the Partridge Family Fan Club?

Thank you,
Geoge Assonovitch

A. Dear George,

Sort of. By sending in your $2.00 you'll catch the following: 45 RPM record featuring secret messages from the Partridges, a mini-poster, autographed photos of each star, wallet-size pics of each star, secret decoder for private club messages, Partridge Stickers for books, walls and lockers, an official Membership card plus a Hollywood address list. If you'd like to get caught, send your $2.00 to Partridge Fan Club, 6311 Yucca Street, Hollywood, Ca. 90028. Full details are listed on page 54.

If you have any questions about the Partridges or their super fan club, write to:
