

felt like what I wanted most of all was a 19c hamburger!

... You like to watch travelogues on television and pretend you're really there!

... You don't polish your fingernails in bright red or wear feathers and furs and try to look extravagant! You understand that true beauty is in being yourself!

... You'd probably let me win at Scrabble even though you're better at it than I am and we both know it!

... You dig good, hard rock and roll and like to sing along with the songs on the radio.

... You're the kind of girl who likes to write little love notes and leave them around in all sorts of wild places like in the refrigerator or the medicine cabinet!

... If you were spending the afternoon with me and I got really sleepy you would tell me you were tired too, even if you weren't!

... You like to plant things and watch them grow — always remembering to water the flowers or the garden.

... You're willing to try something new for dinner and you'll taste it before you make a face at the way it might look!

... You like salads with cheese in them and some type of sea food like shrimp or crab meat!

... You like to go to a good movie and then for a quiet walk, maybe stopping for some hot cocoa on the way.

... You wear the type of clothes you enjoy wearing, even if they're not right in style. You're not afraid to let your individuality show!

... You don't stay mad very long after an argument because you think there are more important things to do than be angry!

... You understand when a gentle squeeze on the hand can do more than a thousand words.

... You like to eat ice cream cones three scoops high.

... Sometimes you tie back your hair with a pretty colored ribbon.

... Exercise is your bag and you love to take long bicycle rides or walk around the park two times. Health is definitely your thing and you try to take good care of yourself.

... Mean thoughts are something we've all got at times, but you try extra hard to think about the best in each of us.

... Sometimes you forget, but usually you manage to make your bed in the morning and hang up your clothes when you come home. You polish your shoes too, and I like that. Neatness is very important.

... You like to pick a few daisies by the roadside and stand them in a glass of water on the dressing table.

... Whenever you've got some extra time you like to get in a little reading.

... You write such beautiful letters to me that I feel sad when I haven't the time to answer every one of them!

... But mostly you're special because you're not afraid to let someone know that you love them with all your heart!
