BARRY & MAUREEN CONFESS

Australia, but he hopes to go all around the world.

MAUREEN says that if she could be anyone else for a day she thinks she'd like to be "a queen or someone like that. It would be more interesting than being an actress—because I already know what that's like."

BARRY says that one of the people he admires most and would like to meet most is Elvis Presley. "I think any man who could do what he's done has got to be worth meeting," Barry says. He also admires the acting of Richard Burton and Paul Newman.

MAUREEN confesses that one of the things she sometimes dreams about is seeing snow. Since she's spent every winter in sunny California, she's never had a White Christmas.

BARRY admits that he really wants to make acting his career. One of his biggest hopes right now is that "The Brady Bunch" will go into a third year. He says, "A third year is really a fun year because everyone knows what they're doing and work together better."

MAUREEN confesses that the things that are most important to her are having friends and acting. And the thing she wants more than anything else is for there to be "peace all over the world."

PARTRIDGE FAMILY SECRETS

so much of "Brides" was filmed around, for instance.

But the past isn't the only reminder of some of your favorite faces. Right near the "Partridge" location, the "Young Rebels" series was filmed! Often, Rick Ely would pop over to the "Partridge" locale for a chat with David or Susan, and they sometimes returned the visit. Now, of course, the Partridges have the area to themselves, but the "Rebels" crew is missed by all.

Danny Bonaduce is the "resident terrorizer" of "The Partridge Family"—but it's all in fun! Dave Madden is one of Danny's favorite "targets"—mainly because the two get along so well. Danny's particular delight is in calling Dave ugly, and himself homely, believe it or not!

Danny says, "We're the ugly ducklings of the show. The reason they hired us was that everyone else on the show is so beautiful and they needed something to take away from all that beauty."

David Cassidy isn't immune to a Danny-attack, either. They've gotten into tug-of-wars, and water fights, all in a day's play. Danny also has staked out the studio as his own private gymnasium! He's been plucked down from cameras and stopped from pushing the wrong buttons just in the nick of time. But how else is a boy going to learn?!

Susan is a constant observer of David's moods on set. "He's a little bit
