Welcome to Edgewater Amusement Park in Detroit, Michigan, where the singin' David is about to give an electrifyin' "in person" concert! His super-show was sponsored by Radio Station WKNR in Detroit and more than 10,000 Cassidy fanatics came along to see and hear him sing. So—hurry and take your seat, cos the show is about to begin!!

Here's a super-duper snapshot of the one and only David Cassidy singing Point Me In The Direction Of Albuquerque, a tune from the Partridge Family's first Bell LP.

Wow—David sure can dance! How do you like his outasite white outfit with lots of long, flowing fringes?! Then again—David looks groovy no matter what he wears: Right?!

Now, David swings into his (and the Partridge Family's) very first smash single—I Think I Love You. Needless to say, the entire audience sings right along, cos they know all the words!

David couldn't believe his eyes and his ears! Just imagine how he felt, seeing and hearing thousands of people waving, cheering, screaming his name and crying happy tears! David was thrilled—to say the least!!
