Dear FLIP,

I saw the Grammy awards, and I just want to say it was really great the way the McCartneys showed up. Their clothes, I mean. I've heard a lot of people cutting them down, and I get into a lot of hassles on account of it. All the other stars were dressed up, showing off their money, but the McCartneys really proved that, even though they have money, they don't consider themselves any better than people who don't have any!

Dear FLIP,

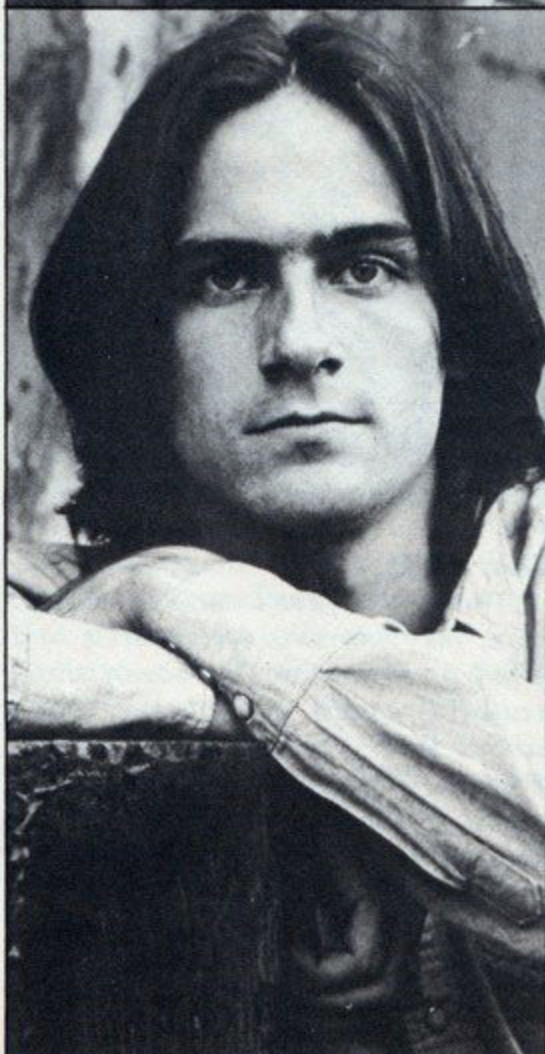

You really disappoint me. You write so many articles on stars, but only a few on James Taylor. James Taylor isn't a fake. He's a beautiful person with something to say. His songs all have a special meaning to someone. I really and truly hope to see him a lot more in FLIP!

Dear FLIP,

Wow! Bobby Sherman's special (June 4) was spectacular! It was only a half hour, but it had the quality of an hour show. And it was much better than the Osmonds' special. The Osmonds tried to put too much in a half hour, and it certainly showed when CBS aired it. There was just too much going on! (But don't get me wrong—I like the Osmonds a lot!) Bobby's show was relaxed and easygoing, with clever one-liners by Rip Taylor and soulful music by the 5th Dimension. I just loved Bobby's special and I hope Bobby and Wes Stern can really get it together with their series come September!

JAMES TAYLOR

Dear FLIP,

In your August issue I read a poem written by B. A. Skidmore. It was a lovely poem and, even though originally it was for a friend, I'm sure Bobby appreciated it, 'cause I was also touched by its warmth. I hope you'll print this so that "Skidmore" can read it and know she has my thanks for what she has done!

Dear FLIP,

My friend Patty and I were reading the July issue of FLIP, and we came across a letter in Flipflap saying that Bobby lovers and David lovers couldn't be friends. Well, we've got news for you. Patty is a Bobby lover and I am a David lover, and we've been friends since second grade! Bobby and David sure haven't changed our friendship. So it just goes to show that all Bobby lovers and all David lovers can be friends if they really want to!
