Instead, he delights with a gift when it's least anticipated, simply because he wants to make a friend beam.

Remember he has a quick sense of humor, a sophisticated one.

And here's another hint: for a honeymoon haven, think of Hawaii! "It's the perfect place to get away from it all," David declared. I went there first at twelve with my mother. When I was eighteen, with Dad. Last spring was the third time." Sam Hyman holidayed with him then. David fancies he can concentrate on his scuba diving on his next time on Maui.

The girl who can get him to propose marriage should smile at that. He says he doesn't plan to marry during his twenties as he has so much to learn. And he doesn't want to belong to anyone, in that manner, until he's fully prepared.

He may ask the only girl for him to live with him first to test their sexual compatibility. But don't forget David has confessed he hasn't been really in love yet. When he is, I bet he'll react so protectively he'll only be worrying about getting the girl to a church on time.

COUNTRY AND WESTERN STARS

the guitar and then other instruments and tried for years to become a star. He got to be a musician, much in demand, but faceless, until he was given a vote of confidence by Capitol Records and allowed to cut a record as a vocalist. Then he hooked up with the Smothers Brothers, and since has unhooked himself when he took issue concerning the political humor the brothers smothered themselves in. Glen, a member of a family boasting 12 children, will probably earn well over the $2 million he made last year from personal appearances, record dates, and film work!

Charley Pride, pride of RCA, is probably the only black star to make it big in country music. He started out in the Mississippi cotton fields where he spent a bone breaking childhood working alongside his seven brothers and three sisters. When he was older he tried to break into baseball and made it with the Memphis Red Sox in the Negro American League.

After being hurt on the ballfield, Charley's career was at a finish. Was it to be the cotton fields again in the blistering sun? Was this the end? He always liked to play the guitar and singing star Red Sovine became interested in him and recommended him to Chet Atkins. He cut his first record in 1965 and today is regarded as a top moneymaker and star. Charley keeps in good physical trim and the uneasy head that wears the crown may grin and laugh, but as Pride says, "You never know in this business..."

Spade Cooley, credited with being the man who brought the pop sound into Country Music, rode the crest with a big band in the forties and early fifties. Then something snapped. Spade brutally murdered his wife. He was sent to prison for life. Only recently he was pardoned and while doing his first show from this side of the bars, for a sheriff's convention, he suffered a fatal heart attack.
