

David Cassidy Collapses In Pain! Terrified Family Prays As Doctors Work To Save His Life!

Just before his attack, David was out with his dad, date Robin Milan at benefit.

■ The pain exploded while David Cassidy was sleeping—a horrible blast of pain that made him wonder if he was going to die. He woke up screaming.

Terrified, he tried to rise, but his insides were filled with a searing agony that made him double over helplessly. Again he screamed, and the scream turned to a tortured sobbing that wracked his body. His roommate, Sam Hyman, heard him and came running from his own bedroom to see what was the matter.

David knew what the matter was. For he had felt this same incredible pain just two weeks earlier. Then, too, it had made him scream and cry, until a doctor had hurried over to the big house in the Hollywood Hills and given him a dose of morphine. The morphine had ended his agony for a while, but now it was back—worse than ever.

(continued on page 20)