

He had put his arm around her and made her promise to never cross the street like that again! David had blamed himself for the near-tragedy the rest of the day. If he had stayed in his room it wouldn't have happened.

SCOOP! SCOOP!
STOP PRESS!

Now! Here's your chance to meet David in person! That's right. As we were going to press we learned the great news that David will be appearing as a special guest on the "Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour," taping at CBS-Television City, 7800 Beverly Blvd., (Beverly at Fairfax) on Friday, Sept. 10th. Dress rehearsal is at 3:30 p.m. and taping is at 7:00 p.m. David will be going in and out during the day, via the artist's entrance in the parking lot, so you'll have a great chance to meet him in person! Be there early and you'll see David in person for sure! Good luck!

Turning from the window, David noticed the room for the very first time since he entered it. It was done in pale shades of green with brightly printed drapes and bedspread that made the room seem lively. It was the sort of place you wanted to share with someone, not keep to yourself.

Walking over to the couch, David laid down and settled himself into the comfortable depths of the cushions. How thankful he had been that day that the girl had been all right! He would never have been able to forgive himself if something had happened!

Closing his eyes, David breathed deeply, as if in silent prayer. When he opened his eyes seconds later, he realized almost miraculously that the room he felt trapped in wasn't really an enemy, but a friend! It would keep all of you safe for him until he could be with you!

• MELTED AWAY

It was like having a tremendous load lifted from his back. The loneliness David had felt before melted away. It didn't matter how long he had to stay in this room, or any room, as long as his reward in the end was being close to you.

If he had to stay hidden to insure your safety, then it was worth it. If he had to have guards at the door and order meals from room service, that wasn't important either, as long as he knew you were out there—safe, sound and willing to accept the love he had to offer. A love that David knew was as strong as the love you gave in return and that made everything worthwhile and beautiful!

Stay Up To Date With

THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY!

Their Newest Album!
"UP TO DATE"
on BELL Stereo 6059

Their First Album!
"THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY ALBUM"
on BELL Stereo 6050

And Their Super Singles!

"DOESN'T SOMEBODY WANT TO BE WANTED"
BELL #963

"I THINK I LOVE YOU"
BELL #910

Available At All Record Shops

BELL RECORDS. A Division of Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc.

